Signature Automation Friends & Family,

Although recent events with nationwide protest have flooded airwaves, there is no doubt that the 2020 COVID-19 pandemic has had a drastic effect on our daily lives. However, with every challenge comes a new opportunity to shine. Large corporations, small businesses and individuals alike have come together once again to show our resolve as a society in the face of severe adversity. Throughout this, there has been a well-deserved outpouring of support for the frontline workers that are critical to our nation's infrastructure and crucial to the well-being of the public. Communities and media outlets have gone out of their way to recognize the outstanding accomplishments of essential workers. But much of their focus has been on healthcare and first responders with little recognition of the outstanding jobs utility personnel are performing daily.

At Signature Automation, we wanted to take this opportunity to show our appreciation for the jobs being done by the state's water and wastewater professionals. Facing this pandemic is challenging enough, but it is comforting to know that these dedicated individuals are there for us during these trying times to ensure our public water systems remain safe.

Several of our staff felt the need to find a way to show our appreciation. Collectively, we reached out to our family members for ideas. Fortunately for us, we have several very creative people on staff with equally creative children who combined their efforts to develop designs for our future generation to color. Through this activity, we are not only providing an "art class assignment" for staff with at home and out of school children but also allowed our staff the opportunity to tout how great the individuals in our industry are and the important role operations and maintenance personnel play in protecting our overall well-being.

If you would like to join us in this effort to show appreciation for the various utilities across the state, please have your friends and family color these sheets and add a short note of appreciation. And, of course, do not hesitate to distribute these to anyone you think might be willing to help out.

Once you have filled them out, feel free to drop them off at your local utility department or, if you prefer, mail them back to Signature Automation and we will distribute them to our client base in Texas cities across the state
